2021 INFANT OBSERVATION SEMINARS

The capacity to observe is central to the practice of psychoanalytic psychotherapy

The privilege of observing an infant in the care of their parent in the home environment for the first one to two years of life offers a unique education in observing which will underpin the therapist's work providing experience in dealing with the internal states which emerge for therapist and patient in clinical work.

Completing a one or two year Infant Observation is an integral component of the QPPA training.
